Liebwylen

Five angular apartment buildings with a total of 32 residential units are built for the Liebwylen residential development, which surround the existing villa of the legendary Swiss chocolate and confectionery manufacturer Max Felchlin built 1927 in canton Schwyz/CH. The urban planning concept, the handling of old and new, the reinterpretation of the existing park, the high level of detail in the architecture and environmental design, the selection of resource-saving materials, the sustainable mobility and supply concept for electricity and energy convinced the jury in the urban interaction. The success criteria of the concept for a nature-bound housing estate in the unique environment at the foot of the breathtaking mountain scenery of the Canton of Schwyz were completely convincing for the jury.
